PERSONAL PROFILE_

Young professional who is hardworking, and reliable, supported by a solid grounding in various customer support disciplines. Works well individually and as part of a team. Open-minded and adapt easily to any role or situation including leadership positions. I find customer support to be one of my strengths in my career and have worked with thousands of customers and business associates for years, achieving many working customer and business operating solutions and customer satisfaction.

CAREER HISTORY_

Fernard/ Sub Companies

April 2023 - April 2024

The role here was an array of different responsibilities depending on the month. My main role was to contact new claimants for the claims management part of the company. These tasks included contacting claimants, scheduling and booking in time to speak to other clients/claimants who require specific appointment times and needs and working on a lead management system. I have also performed a managerial role for some of my time there, checking monthly office workings and organizing office upgrades and scheduling of meetings and giving jobs and roles to employees.

Safetynet IT

September 2014 - March 2022

I built a significant technical skillset and improved my customer service skills while at Safetynet IT, my job included many aspects of IT support, these skills ranged from speaking to customers on the phone and attending to their IT support needs either over the phone or with an office or home visit. The phone support ranged from talking a customer through a fix or accessing the customer's computer/server directly or remotely to fix any issues they had with their setup or any IT problems or provide a workaround. Things I helped fix or assist with included, server setup, personal computer setup this included sourcing pc parts to put together for specific jobs, office wiring setup and fixes including port installation, switch installation. computers setups for specific jobs, software installs, hardware installs software and hardware suggestions for certain jobs and many more niche IT requirements.

Tesco Broadband & Home phone -November 2012- August 2014

Working for Tesco Broadband has given me many skills in dealing with customers and colleges. Worked for the Technical Support department in Tesco Broadband, ranging from training Technical Support, to second line work, like dealing with communications between the networking team, the voice service team and ourselves. Also had experience training the technical support team to do their job on the phone, trained how to do the job to help with how to take/log calls, note the customer base system with the correct information to do with the job on the call, checked any escalations to the networking team to do with faults that were unfixable over the phone and to make sure the correct work had been done to the best of the agents ability. Worked on the phone mostly as a first line technical support agent, dealt with customers on the phone to the best of my ability then I would then refer a fault track to our networking team and they would then deal with that from their side, any updates that came through from them, I made sure the customer was called.
